Situation Tense, No Fighting

Troops in China
Move Into Battle
Positions, But War
Has Not Broken Out

CHINWANGTAO, Nov. 9.—(P)—American transported Chinese nationalist troops have moved into battle positions opposing the Yen'an Communists forces along the eastern end of the great Chinese Wall, boundary between disputed North China and Manchuria.

But, possibly because of the presence of American marines in strategic positions in the area, fighting has not broken out, despite the fact thousands of Nationalists and Communists opposed each other at Shanhaikwan (Linyu), the ancient city which forms part of the Great Wall and is its eastern anchor on the Gulf of Chihli, 10 miles north of Chinwangtao.

The elements of two Chinese Nationalist armies, the Thirteenth and the 52nd — were put ashore by United States amphibious forces under Vice Adm. Dan. Barbey. At first the Chinese troops crowded into this relatively small harbor city and milled about doing nothing before they spread out toward the Great Wall of China—and the strong forces of the Communist Eighth Route army along it.

Ready for Combat
From all indications the Communists are well dug in both in and around Shanhaikwan and are sufficiently mobile to swing either direction to combat any forced entry into Manchuria along that sector.

A serious and historic test is building up between the Nationalists and the Communists in the vicinity of the Great Wall, but as of the moment the civil war has not broken out in the coastal areas.

After a week of touring the critical areas, talking with Chinese Nationalist and American officers and Communist leaders, I am convinced that although many local areas are dangerously tense, open full-scale warfare has not begun because neither the Communists nor the Nationalists have felt the time or circumstances propitious.

But unmistakably the crucial test is building up about 10 miles north of this Nationalist port, which originally was secured by American Marines to become a major debarkation port for Kuomintang soldiers in North China and a potential funnel for the pouring of Chiang Kai-Shek's forces on the drive for Manchuria.

Landings Doubtful
In view of the Communist hold on virtually all coastal areas of Manchuria, it is becoming increasingly doubtful that any Nationalist troop landings in any size will be made north of the Great Wall, at least with the aid of American naval forces.

Thus if Chiang's government is to regain Manchuria by force — assuming the Nationalist-Communist negotiations at Chungking are futile — the main fight will be along the Great Wall and Shanhaikwan currently is the focal point of the tension.

But during the tour of Communist controlled areas of the eastern coast, where the Nationalists have been hoping to regain control, it was impressed with the mock warfare now going on. Somehow, it makes you think of a group of schoolboys playing war in dead earnestness but actually unwilling to engage in a real fight.

First one side and then the other will march and countermarch all over the countryside, causing all kinds of excitement and speculation. Positions are changed and strengthened, but save for a few stray shots there is no fighting.

Some Officers Repudiated Prior Stories

Change Testimony
On Pearl Harbor,
Senator Contends

By Jack Bell

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(P)—Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) said today he wants to know why some army officers reportedly changed their stories about the Pearl Harbor disaster.

Ferguson told a reporter he and Senator Brewster (R-Me) will ask the senate-house investigating committee to call before it some of the officers Brewster has contended "repudiated in substantial respects" testimony they had given before an army inquiry board.

"We want some of these officers called in and asked why they changed their stories," Ferguson said. "We want to know how it was possible for their memory of events to be better three years after the attack than it was earlier."

Ferguson added that he was referring to changes in testimony he said came about through the collection of affidavits by Maj. Henry C. Clausen of the judge advocate general's department.

Brewster read in the senate last week an order by former secretary of war Stimson which made secret and top secret papers available to Clausen. The Maine senator told his colleagues Clausen was sent around the world to get affidavits with the result that some "amazing contradictions" developed in testimony.

Hull May Be Witness
Chairman Barkley (D-Ky) of the senate-house group said Stimson probably will be called as a witness during the hearings which begin next Thursday.

Barkley also listed former secretary of state Hull as a likely witness.

Ferguson contended in an interview that the committee's 6 to 4 rejection yesterday of his motion to delay the start of hearings until Nov. 23 would find members unprepared for the testimony.

"We are being asked to start without making adequate preparations," he said. "I understand the exhibits which will be placed in the record won't be ready for study until Monday."

Ferguson added that a revised order President Truman is expected to issue still would leave Republican members "operating on a crutch."

Chas. M. Van Dyne is Back From New Orleans

Charles Van Dyne, who represented the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce before the Civil Aeronautics board examiners in New Orleans Monday, returned to Sedalia Wednesday night.

Mr. Van Dyne appeared before the board in the interest of Sedalia for mainline east-west and north-south airline service.

It will probably be several months before any action taken on the matter will be made public.

Children's Story Hour is Popular

The children's story hour each Saturday morning at the Sedalia public library, conducted by Miss Lavilla Smart, children's librarian, has been very popular with children of Sedalia as indicated by an attendance of over 100 the past three weeks.

The stories to be told Saturday morning, at 10 o'clock, include "The Fisherman and His Wife," "The Fish Who Was Never Hungry" and one surprise story which was not announced.

Attribute Ills of World to Intellectual, Moral Ignorance

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 9.—(P)—Senator James W. Fulbright of Arkansas addressing a session of the Missouri State Teachers' association convention last night, declared that "the ills of this world may be attributed to intellectual and moral ignorance."

Senator Fulbright asserted that "illiteracy, prejudice and lack of understanding are the major obstacles in the way of world peace." He called on the teachers to help remove those obstacles and declared that the people of the United States must be "re-educated to internationalism."

He criticized proponents of the idea of keeping the atomic bomb secret within the United States. "This is simply a reversion to pre-war isolationism. Except for the actual manufacturing process the atomic bomb is not secret and scientists of other nations could devise such a process in four or five years. Then it would simply be a matter of seeing what country would strike first."

Deny Report Stalin Is in Washington

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—A CBS broadcast from London said today there were reports "that Marshal Stalin is in Washington" and that the atomic energy discussions might turn into a Big Three meeting, but that these reports were not taken seriously in the British capital.

On Wednesday, reporters asked Eben Ayers, assistant White House press secretary, about reports that Stalin is or has been in the United States.

"If it is so," Ayers replied, "we know nothing about it. The president has no knowledge of it."

Winter Comes From Canada

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—(P)—It was a kiss goodbye to Indian summer from a wide section of the country today as winter's demon advanced agents, snow and cold, blustered in from western Canada and extended their usual chilly greetings.

The icy blasts from Alberta, which already chilled the mountain and northwest Pacific states, moved eastward from Montana across the northern tier of states and were headed into New England.

Temperatures tumbled to new lows in many sections and below zero readings were reported in Montana and North and South Dakota. Below freezing marks were common over the midwest. Heavy snow fell in sections of North Dakota and Minnesota.

Glasgow, Mont., reported 19 below, the country's lowest reading; Williston, N. D., 8 below and Dickinson, N. D., 5 below. Chicago shivered in an early morning 30 above as contrasted to yesterday's mild 70.

Federal forecasters said after hitting new lows in the midwest area tomorrow the mercury will start climbing late Saturday and Sunday.

"There is no international law, no outlawing of weapons," Senator Fulbright said. "It is the responsibility of teachers to see that the prejudices of false patriotism and jingoism are not passed on to the next generation. We face complete extinguishment if they are."

Collective Bargaining Accepted

Same Issue That Broke up Similar Conference After
First World War

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(P)—Secretary George W. Taylor of the Labor-Management conference said today it is "fair to say that in every committee there has been full acceptance of collective bargaining."

The former war labor board chairman told a new conference that this was the issue which broke up a similar conference after the First World War, called by President Wilson in 1919.

The greatest dissension so far in President Truman's conference has been within the ranks of labor. John L. Lewis may try to draft a wage bargaining policy on which labor's divided forces may unite.

Taylor declared that the committee on grievance procedure "appears to be in agreement" that there must be some terminal point to grievance procedure if there is to be no strike — no lockout provisions in the contracts.

This means, he said, that there must be some provision for a final interpretation of contract clauses to dispose of grievances which frequently lead to strikes.

For Time Limit

Taylor expressed the opinion that in order to make terminal procedure work there must be a time limit within which decisions can be obtained by the ultimate umpire.

Taylor said hearings would be held Wednesday to determine whether these independent unions should be given representation. One union asking admission is the Independent Union of New Jersey, whose members picketed the conference on its opening day.

Lewis last night roundly denounced a resolution offered by CIO President Philip Murray, declaring it would limit labor's wage gains to the price advances of "a bottle of milk, a pair of shoes or a straw hat."

With support from AFL President William Green, Lewis outlined to the conference's executive committee — and later to reporters — a wage program which would free labor to seek whatever it could "reasonably" get.

Believe in Profit

"We believe in the right of investors to get a return on their investment, of industry to make a profit, of labor to negotiate freely," the mine workers' chief told correspondents after a clash with Murray in the closed committee meeting.

Free competition within industry as peacetime production rises, Lewis said, will serve as a "limitation on prices and a brake on profits, while increased efficiency and competition will lower the cost of articles to the consumer."

Asked whether he might try to frame some other declaration of wage bargaining policy on which all of labor's 36 delegates to the conference might agree, the brush-browed UMW president paused, then said:

"We might come to that."

Ask Court to Change Name

A petition was filed in the circuit clerk's office today by Elliott David Ginsberg and Nettie Keiner Ginsberg, his wife, Stephen Harris Ginsberg and Barbara Jane Ginsberg, their children, of whom they are guardians, to change the name Ginsberg to Elliott.

Mr. Ginsberg, who is owner of the Elliott Jewelry store, asks that the name be changed for business reasons as there is a confusion in the name because of the name of the store. He is usually called Mr. Elliott.

Mr. Ginsberg asks that his name be changed to David Elliott, according to the petition, that his wife's name be changed to Nettie Elliott and that the names of the children be changed to Stephen Harris Elliott and Barbara Jane Elliott.

F. W. Hayes is their attorney.

Graves of 14 Fliers Found

By Hamilton W. Faron
TOKYO, Nov. 9.—(P)—The crudely marked graves of 14 executed B-29 fliers, hidden in underground, have been discovered in Osaka, the U. S. Sixth army disclosed today.

Nine of the 14 have been identified tentatively by means of names cut on pieces of plank and stuck into the graves but they are being withheld until next of kin have been notified.

The grim discovery resulted from a letter sent General MacArthur's headquarters by a Korean who told of 18 fliers being shot down June 5-6 during a raid on Osaka.

The 18 were brought in as prisoners and held in the basement of the prefecture building where two died a few days later from wounds.

Other Koreans held in the same prison told army investigators that the remaining 16 were marched daily from prison cells to be questioned by the brutal "thought police." On returning to the cells, the fliers showed signs of beatings.

This routine continued until Aug. 6 when 14 of the group were taken from the cells blindfolded and deprived of their shoes.

The Koreans said the fliers never returned. The shoes remained in the cells for several weeks.

Japanese guards were quoted by the internees as saying the fliers "were guilty of crimes against civilians by bombing their cities and strafing their hospitals and that they were going to be executed."

Women Relate Details of War Crimes

Saw Members of
Their Families Die
In Jap Slaughter

By Dean Schedler

MANILA, Nov. 9.—(P)—The first details of a mass slaughter perpetrated last February 16 and 18 by the Japanese in a ravine near Taal, Batangas Province were related today by two black clad women at the Yamashita war crimes trial.

Both lost members of their families in the slaughter.

While tears streamed down her cheeks, Mrs. Conchita Lualaba testified that the soldiers of Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita set fire to a Barrio (village) forcing her family to seek refuge in a nearby sugar plantation. Pursuing Japanese diverted the fleeing people toward the ravine.

"I could hear screaming from men, women and children as shootings became intense and the Japanese started showering people with grenades," she told the commission in a halting, choking voice.

"The Japanese were dashing around laughing and shouting during this terrible time."

Her husband and one-year-old daughter were among the more than 50 dead she saw in the ravine.

Pretended To Be Dead

Juanita Barrior, 26, told of losing her mother, father, three sisters and four brothers. They were victims of machinegun and field fire and grenades. She related how, as Japanese fired point blank into the ravine, she pretended to be dead. She left the ravine later to search for food for a four-months-old brother. When she returned there was only a heap of scattered bones in the area. Exploding grenades had blasted the gory scene.

She said she was unable to ascertain why the Japanese committed the killings and the firing of the Barrios, inasmuch as no American soldiers were close by.

The Yamashita defense has contended the Japanese in the area acted to crush guerrilla activities which were hampering the Japanese in their losing defensive campaign.

Declines to Defend Tojo

TOKYO, Nov. 9.—(P)—Fusaaki Uzawa, prominent Japanese lawyer appointed to defend war criminals, today declined to participate in the defense of Hideki Tojo, the "Pearl Harbor premier," because "Tojo personally was responsible for the war."

Uzawa, president of Meiji university, nevertheless said that Tojo should be given a fair trial—"although I am not sure that he deserves it"—because of the international importance of the case.

The 73-year-old Uzawa told the Associated Press that he would not defend any Japanese charged as a war criminal unless he personally was satisfied the accused was innocent. He said he believed Tojo would find it difficult to obtain Japanese counsel.

Tax Slash Measure Is Signed

First President
In 16 Years to Sign General Tax
Reduction Bill

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9. The White House today announced that President Truman had signed the bill giving individuals and business a slash of $5,920,000,000 in 1946 taxes.

Mr. Truman thus became first President in 16 years to sign a general tax reduction measure. Not since Herbert Hoover put his signature on a "Christmas present" slash in 1929 has there been an overall reduction of pocket-book levies.

Congressional sponsors of the legislation said it would stimulate business in the reconversion period and create jobs.

The White House announcement this morning said the bill was signed yesterday.

The Legislation:

1. Removes 12,000,000 low income persons from the tax books and assures reductions of 10 per cent or more for individuals making up to $50,000 annually. And smaller cuts are provided for those with income over $50,000. Total reductions for individuals amount to $2,644,000,000.

2. Provides special tax treatment for veterans of World War II, forgiving all levies on service pay of enlisted men in wartime and giving officers three years in which to settle with the government.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Friends of atomic-bomb inventor J. Robert Oppenheimer are trying to persuade him to run for congress from California.
Oppenheimer made a big impression on the senate Kilgore committee when he dramatically urged the only defense against atom bombs was peace and that atomic energy should become the means of raising living standards the world over.
Fellow scientists say there is need in congress for an experienced scientist, now that we are entering into the atomic age. All the experts agree no one knows atomic power better than Oppenheimer.
Friends also point out that 30 learned men were elected to the French chamber of deputies in the recent elections; 70 scientists are being voted members of the supreme Soviet; that A. N. Back, one of the world's greatest biologists, is vice president of the supreme Soviet; and that Juan Negrin, former premier of Spain, was a professor of physiology.

From the time they plunged into the European conflict in December, 1944, the doughboys of the 70th (Trailblazer) Division never took a backward step. One of its memorable moments came, less than two months after its men had landed at Marseilles, when the Trailblazers captured Spichern Heights, known to the Nazis as "Hitler's Holy Ground," because it was here that Der Fuhrer had first trod on French ground.
Early in March, the offensive of the Trailblazers carried them to the south bank of the Saar River, where two of its regiments promptly put men across the vital stream. On March 20, the city of Saarbrücken fell to the Trailblazers' 275th Regiment. At the same time, the rest of the division's units swarmed through the formidable Seigfried Line defenses.
Late in March, advance elements of the 70th met men of the 26th Infantry Division and effected their junction with the Third Army.
The Trailblazers first saw combat December 28, 1944, in defensive positions along the west bank of the Rhine in Alsace-Lorraine. The German drive in the sector was timed with the Ardennes offensive. The 70th held fast against the onslaught of picked German troops—including the elite of the SS—and the point of the northern prong of the German drive was blunted and finally broken.
After the reduction of the Saar Basin, the Trailblazers were assigned to occupational duties at Otterberg, Bad Kreuznach, Frankfurt, and Orianstein, near Limburg-on-Lahn.

ESME OF PARIS by Esme Davis
CIRCUS IN AMERICA
XXIX
A RESTLESS desire to leave France now haunted me, and I decided to try my luck in the United States. As yet America was an unknown field for me in aerial work. But first, I contracted to play that Mecca of summer circuses, Hollana. This enabled me to embark at Rotterdam for the States, thus escaping the wrench of leaving Paris.
I arrived in August, and the heat, after Europe, was the first thing to attract my attention. I moved into the nearest hotel I could find to Central Park, the Hotel Wellington on Seventh Avenue, and began my acquaintance with New York.
I wanted to see the city for myself, in my own way, so did not look up any of father's relatives or go in touch with performers. I visited, together with other tourists, the famous Chinatown, Harlem and the Bowery, then took a taxi to Poe's cottage, with its bitter-sweet fragrance of bygone days, which I loved, and after that, I inspected Grant's Tomb from the outside. From these sacred precincts I transferred my curiosity to the theatrical agents of Broadway and met many strange and rare creatures among them.
After a lot of hunting around, I found a little gym tucked away on West 47th Street, between Ninth and 10th Avenues, where I could just manage to hang m. rigging and practice. The proprietor was an old German who ran a bar in the front of the establishment, with the universal circus atmosphere that reminded me of the Gymnase Pons on Montmartre. The first time I worked with the Frank Wirth and Shrine circuses in which I used high rigging, I finally employed a Russian named Stepan, who appeared to be excellent during rehearsals, was a hard worker and very enthusiastic about making good. When we finally started working, however, I discovered that after 6 in the evenings he developed a thirst that simply could not be controlled, and he would go through the entire act with a drunken dignity and glassy stare that terrified me.

THE climax came when I worked a date near New York and had the stupidity to call on my cousins and a sister of my father's. They were, I could see, curious but dismayed when I extended an invitation to them to run down by car and see me work. Evidently a cousin in the circus was not a very acceptable addition to the family, and I never should have asked them to visit this skeleton in the cupboard in its natural surroundings. I had almost forgotten about it until one Saturday matinee, when they arrived in an enormous limousine.
There were two dignified old maid cousins and my aunt, her nostrils quivering at the smells encountered on the way to my dressing room. Mercifully, Stepan, the rigger, headed them off with a saucer of champagne in rigging men and did his best to deter them from penetrating the area around the dressing rooms, where the parade was just lining up for the "spec." Stumbling over ropes and tackle on the ground, despite Stepan's guidance, they managed to get inextricably mixed up with the elephants and some performing seals.
My relatives were nearly hysterical by the time I had thrown on a robe and steered them out of the melée, sending Stepan with them to obtain seats. When I entered for my act I didn't see them anywhere, and later on I received a little prim note thanking me for the tickets but saying they would return to see me again when I "played Radio City."

War Dads Plan For Campaign

Reports Given At Meeting Held On Thursday Night
The Pettis County Chapter of the American War Dads held its regular meeting at the Maccabee Hall, Thursday night, with the president, H. E. Lindstrom, presiding. Plans for a membership campaign were made.
Reports were given by E. W. Schultz and Mr. Lindstrom of the Third Annual Convention of the American War Dads held in St. Louis last week, to which they had gone as delegates. The outstanding work of the organization at the present time, they reported, is the securing of improved hospitalization of the disabled veterans.
In behalf of this work, General Omar Bradley sent Major General Hawley, recently in charge of the army hospitals in the European area and now on the staff of the Veterans Administration, to explain the new set-up that is being worked out for the hospitals of this country.
The delegates expressed themselves as pleased with the attention that was accorded Missouri at the meeting in the largest city of the state. It was pointed out that the idea of the War Dads was the product of Nat Milgram, of Kansas City, and that the organization started there. When Harry Truman was Senator from Missouri, he became one of the first hundred War Dads.
Missouri's first president of the nation telegraphed his greetings to the convention. The largest chapter of War Dads was credited to Springfield, Mo., where members have done splendid work among the veterans at O'Reilly hospital. Missouri's governor, Phil M. Donnelly, and the mayor of St. Louis, A. P. Kaufmann,

Dr. Gingrich In Lecture Visions Power Of Destruction

Dr. Newell Gingrich, professor of physics at the University of Missouri, professed a belief that "we have a real basis for fear" from the destructive application of atomic energy in an interview preceding his lecture Thursday night on "Atomic Power and Its Effect on Our Future Lives," at the Smith-Cotton high school auditorium.
Answering the question "Will danger from atomic warfare cause our government to decentralize all major industries," Dr. Gingrich asserted that at present this is the only sure counter-measure against the use of the bomb.
"If we do not have an effective world organization to control the bomb, there is a strong likelihood that one nation will partially destroy another or that both would destroy themselves," he predicted.
An atomic bomb could be released without the country attacked knowing who was to blame. "We are now beyond the state of blitzkrieg—it is superblitzkrieg," Dr. Gingrich exclaimed.
Dr. Gingrich said that German scientists did know of the atomic fission, but probably were not within six months or more of perfecting an atomic bomb.

Technical Details Secret
"It is an illusion to believe the fundamentals of this process are in any way secret and the American people will deceive themselves if they think they can withhold from other nations the basic principles of the release of atomic energy."
"It is true there are technical details which have remained secret, but these eventually can be figured out by any capable group of scientists."
In a thorough, technical discourse on atomic physics, Dr. Gingrich explained the origin of atomic energy and illustrated with slides how nuclear disintegration takes place.
Through a series of diagrammatic illustrations, which included a review of the major elements and various types of energies, he explained processes that have led to the development of the atomic bomb.

Worshiping in the Church. Scripture: Nehemiah 8:1-12; Psalm 111; Isaiah 61:1-8; Acts 2:46-47; Ephesians 5:15-21

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
I think I remarked that mankind wasn't there to be embraced. Worshiping in church has a social significance, value, and effect that no worship in private can have. No matter how sincere it may be. There is a place for the religion of the woods and fields, Jesus laid great stress upon it. He led His disciples through the fields. He taught them beside the sea and the greatest of all sermons. He preached as they sat around Him on the mountain. But the Sabbath found Him in the synagogue. In the example that Jesus set for us, church-going was an essential part.

"All mankind" is not in the church, any more than in the woods or fields, but mankind, our fellowmen, are there, the symbol of the whole human family and brotherly love and mutual aid and affection have more concrete meaning when we are worshipping among our own with common needs, common hopes, and common aspirations.

What does it mean to worship? I think that in the mind and teaching of Jesus, worship was always associated with truth and with conduct. He defined its nature very definitely in His talk at Jacob's Well with the woman of Samaria. "God is a spirit," He said, "and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth." That is the real and ultimate test of worship. And much of our worship today, I fear, will not stand the test; for when worship becomes formal it ceases to be in spirit and in truth. Worship, too, is not an end in itself; its purpose is to bring us nearer to God and nearer to one another.

Some time ago I attended a service in which the preacher gave a thoughtful and original sermon, one of the best that I have ever heard. I have forgotten the exact wording of the theme, but it was an able exposition of the social conception of God. But what impressed me, apart from the deep impression of the sermon itself, was that almost everything in the ecclesiastical setting was in almost direct contrast with the minister's fine words. The appointments, the symbols, almost all suggested a God who was an oriental potentate, rather than Our Heavenly Father. It is well that we should feel awe and reverence in the presence of the Eternal; but the great word for the worshiper is: draw nigh to you. The true aim draw nigh to you. The true aim is to bring us near to God, not to make us feel His remoteness.

We are accustomed to call our periods of worship in church "services." Is attending church actually Christian service, or is the measure of our service what we put into effect in our daily life? The soldier is serving even when he is not in action, and our church services might be compared to the soldier's periods of preparation, or assembly for marching orders. But unless our worship gets into our daily thoughts and deeds it is not worship in spirit and in truth, and is not Christian worship at all.

Atomic Fears

Current news headlines are apt to be depressing, and this may account for the high tension and nervousness of which so many complain. There is still a strong escapist urge noticeable among both old and young: the old because the war has left them weary and dispirited; the young because the future—the atomic future—seems dark and foreboding.

When a man is troubled by problems or fears that seem too much for him, he may turn to drink. Or he may try to immunize himself against the shocks of reality by adopting some stoical philosophy of his own shaping. More rational hysteria, however, will not be swayed by emotional hysteria, but will face the future with the fortitude and confidence which are the hallmarks of Christian faith. Man is still the master of his own soul.

Dangers whether present or remote do not justify running away from God, as so many people are doing today. They merely point to the need for greater devotion to prayer, to more purposeful living, more kindness and understanding toward others—in short, to the recognition of God and His Law as the source of all goodness and power.

Perhaps the greatest good that may evolve out of the present mood of worldwide disquiet may be the turning of men's minds to those principles of virtue and justice which alone can assure their happiness. The atomic bomb may merely be inducing a nightmare from which men will awaken, thankful that what they have dreamed has not come to pass, but strongly resolved at the same time that human folly must never permit shadow to become substance.

Sports Writer Picks Army to Win Saturday

Also Believes
Michigan Will Defeat the Navy

By Harold Claassen

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—(AP)—Army, Michigan, Pennsylvania, So. California and Louisiana State will triumph in Saturday's major football games in the opinion of this writer, which has spluttered through the season so far at an .805 gait.

Last week's predictions, in which 32 of 41 were correct, not only was one of the poorest efforts of the past four years but definitely failed to foresee the St. Mary's victory over Southern California, Michigan's blanketing of Minnesota or Columbia's verdict over Cornell.

With that warning, here comes this weekend's prognostications: Notre Dame-Army: For an entire year now Notre Dame students have made a by-word of the 50-0 humiliation the Irish team suffered in this game but the Ramblers will have to wait until Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis are second lieutenants. Army by three touchdowns.

Michigan and Navy: In the year 1944 Bob Hoernschmeyer, as a member of the Indiana university team, defeated Michigan with his passes. He is a navy plebe now and his jinx is broken. Michigan.

Columbia-Pennsylvania: Penn's line is reported twice as good as that of Columbia's with the backfield about on a par. That should make it easy for the Quakers—but it won't be. Still, Pennsylvania.

M S Can Be Beaten
Mississippi State and Louisiana State: Tulane showed LSU that Mississippi State could be beaten. Louisiana State.

California and Southern California: Although two major parts of the Trojan machine have been removed by naval transfers the club will get enough inspiration from the home crowd. Southern California.

Indiana-Minnesota: The Gophers, early Big Ten title choices, have taken a fearful beating the past two weeks. Indiana.

Tulsa-Oklahoma: A&M: Bob Fenimore, the human adding machine when it comes to yards gained will swing the decision to the Aggies. Each team took a two week's rest in preparation for the struggle. Oklahoma. A&M.

Georgia Tech-Tulane: Watson, the mirror please. It shows Georgia Tech.

Baylor-Texas: The Longhorns have had tight squeezes the past two Saturdays and will win this one quickly. Texas.

Temple-Penn State: Two of the best November teams in the east but the Lions have the stronger. Penn State.

Wildcats Are Good
Northwestern-Wisconsin: The Wildcats have convinced themselves they are pretty good. Northwestern.

Oregon State-Washington: The Huskies aren't going to lose out on the Rose Bowl cash at this stage of the season. Washington.

Finishing the rest in a hurry:

East: Cornell over Colgate, Kings Point over Harvard, Yale over Brown, Lehigh over NYU, Dartmouth over Princeton, Villanova over Boston College, Atlantic City Navy over CCNY, Holy Cross over Coast Guard (Sunday).

Southwest: Rice over Arkansas, Texas A&M over Southern Methodist, Texas Christian over Texas Tech.

South: Georgia over Florida, Auburn over Southwest Louisiana Institute, Tennessee over Mississippi, Chattanooga over Vanderbilt, Kentucky over West Virginia, Maryland over VMI, North Carolina over William & Mary, Virginia over Richmond, Miami over South Carolina (Friday).

Midwest: Illinois over Iowa, Ohio State over Pittsburgh, Michigan State over Great Lakes, Marquette over Kansas, Oklahoma over Iowa State, Drake over Iowa

His Pet Systems Point to a Tie, but Leprechaun Slips Him Notre Dame

By Major Amos B. Hoople
Ex-Timekeeper Erie Railroad

Egad! Now we come to the apogee, or apex, if you will, of the pigskin season. By which I mean the titanic clash 'twixt Army and Notre Dame!

Quite a holocaust is in prospect naturally, and I'm aware my readers' desire that I bear down on this one. Well, I have done so—and here is the score of that meeting of the two splendid teams Notre Dame 27, Army 20.

Hour after hour I toiled on this according to the Copernican and prognostication. All my figures Malthusian systems pointed to a tie at three touchdowns apiece.

Then, in the wee small hours, as I sat dreaming over my crystal ball a leprechaun appeared to me and said: "Amos, my boy, always figure the Irish for one more touchdown than they are supposed to make!" With that he disappeared in a cloud of cigar smoke.

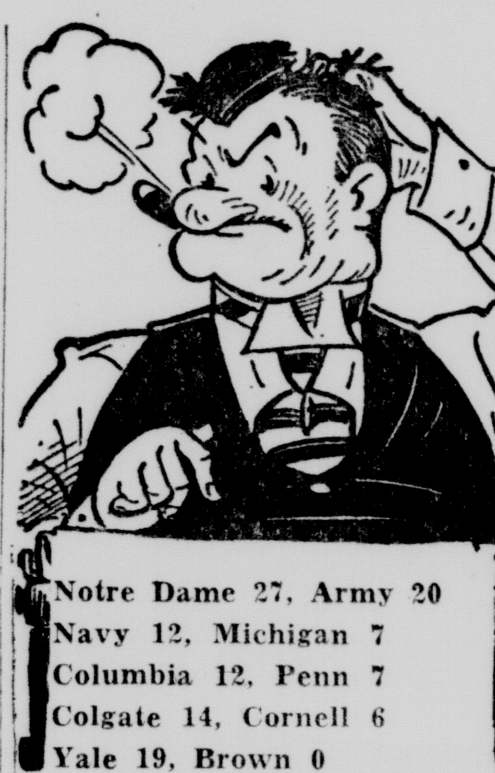

If that sounds fanciful, just remember this potent fact: Army is an easier team to score on than Notre Dame is. That in itself should satisfy the scientific mind that the game is in the bag.

Attached are my predictions for games of Nov. 10.

See you later, boys and girls.

Teachers, Kansas State over Nebraska, Purdue over Miami of Ohio.

Far West: Washington State over Oregon, Denver over Colorado A&M, St. Mary's over Fresno State (Sunday).

Late-comers may miss both the Cadets' parade and the touchdown parade. . . . If the Irish receive the kickoff, it's a good bet they'll pass on the first play in an attempt to score quickly. And another good bet is that Boley Daniewicz will toss to either Elmer Angsman or Dick Cronin, both nearsighted and hence lightly regarded as pass receivers. . . . For Army it has been almost routine this season to send Glenn Davis on a long run around end or to have him pass to Doc Blanchard for a touchdown about the third play after getting the ball. . . . The Cadets likely will try something new this time, say one of

Quebec Offers Industry Ideal Opportunity

QUEBEC, Nov. 9—Since industry must locate where it can operate, and manufacturing profits are so largely determined by geographical location in relation to raw materials, low-cost electrical power, availability of good and plentiful labor, transportation and proximity of markets, the Province of Quebec is one of the most economical, and, therefore, profitable areas on this continent, not only for domestic business, but also because it has been long in the forefront among Canadian provinces in export trade.

The province is a hub of water, rail and air transportation. Its total amount of both developed and undeveloped waterpower is estimated at thirteen million horsepower. Its foremost resources cover 262,000 square miles, and a scientific supervision ensures reforestation. Its wonderful great and varied mineral resources, still barely scratched, will soon make world mining history, according to experts. Another Quebec industry, marine fisheries, is also on the threshold of a considerable development.

To the above-mentioned advantages, and many others besides, the Province of Quebec adds this key factor, to wit, the sound traditions of its people and their desire for progress and order.

Kansas City spent the week-end with Mrs. Ardrey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Calvert. Also visitors in the Calvert home were Mr. and Mrs. Linhart of Los Angeles, Calif.

Lloyd Street, who underwent an appendectomy recently at Bothwell hospital, is recuperating satisfactorily.

Mrs. T. J. Pace recently was a visitor in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Carl Calvert, of Warrensburg.

Surrender Demand By British

Ultimatum To Indonesians To Give Up Arms By 6 A. M. Saturday

By RALPH MORTON

BATAVIA, Nov. 8.—(P)—Fearing that heavy shooting will break out again tomorrow, President Soekarno of the unrecognized Indonesian republic tonight appealed to President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee to intercede and prevent savage warfare throughout Java.

Soekarno's appeal was made shortly after a British commander had ordered all Indonesians to surrender their arms by 6 a. m. Saturday, or face "all the naval, army and air forces under my command."

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 8.—(P)—A British commander in an ultimatum tonight ordered Indonesians at the Soerabaja naval base and other areas of East Java to surrender their arms by 6 a. m. Saturday or face "all the naval, army and air forces under my command."

"All Indonesians who are not willing to follow these orders will be responsible for the bloodshed which will definitely result," Maj. Gen. E. C. Mansergh, commanding Allied forces in the eastern part of strife-torn Java, declared.

With 100,000 Indonesians reported massing in central Java, the Indonesian-controlled Soerabaja naval base summoned Nationalist forces to resist any attempt by Dutch troops offshore to reinforce the British Indian units holding a fortified zone at the Soerabaja base, scene of bloody skirmishes last week.

Orders Be Enforced
Mansergh's message to the Indonesian national governor in East Java called for the disarming of all Indonesians except police, set the Saturday deadline, and asserted:

"I will enforce these orders by the use of all naval, army and air forces under my command."

One Indonesian spokesman declared the ultimatum might precipitate "terrible bloodshed."

It was issued after a day of bloody fighting on the outskirts of Batavia in which 15 Indonesians were killed and two British Indian and two Dutch soldiers were wounded.

Mansergh's letter to the Indonesian governor said: "You are hereby advised that Allied troops will enter the city and neighborhood of Soerabaja and other areas in East Java."

"I have been ordered by the commander in chief of Allied forces in the Netherlands East Indies (Lt. Gen. Sir Philip Christison) to disarm the lawless mob, so that normal life in the city may continue, and the Allied policy of evacuation of Allied nationals and disarmament of Axis forces can be implemented."

"It is my intention to effect this disarmament and restore normal conditions at an early date."

Break Up Attack
In today's battles on the outskirts of Batavia British tanks crashing into the jungles broke up an attack by 1,000 Indonesian youths on an interment camp. Fourteen Indonesians were killed and two British Indian soldiers and other Indonesians were wounded.

Another band of 300 Indonesians engaged Dutch troops at Tjilatjap air field, also on Batavia's outer limits. One Indonesian was killed and two Dutch soldiers were wounded.

British reports said six Indonesian divisions were being formed at Bangoeang, only 75 miles south-east of Batavia. Additional forces of armed Indonesians were said to be pouring into Magelang, about 45 miles north of Jogjakarta. Some residents already had begun to evacuate Magelang.

Civilians To Celebrate

Monday, November 12, will be considered a holiday for all civilian employees of SAAFI since Armistice Day falls on a Sunday. All graded civilian employees who work on this day will receive time-and-a-half pay for their day's work. Ungraded employees will receive only their regular day's pay.

The Weather

Fair Friday and Saturday, colder in south and east central. Much colder southeast. High temperatures 40 northwestern to 45 southeastern Friday. Saturday somewhat warmer northwestern portion in afternoon.

Cold Wave Has Moved In

Balmy breezes with Indian summer temperatures were swept away Thursday by stronger and crisp shifting winds that shot the mercury down rapidly during the day and after midafternoon the descent was accelerated.

Starting with a reading of 66 degrees above zero at 7 a. m., the temperature lowered to 40 degrees by 3 p. m. and by 9 p. m., it was 36 degrees above zero. At midnight it was 32 degrees above zero.

Training Bill Saved From A Vote Thursday

Rep. Short Asserts Universal Plan Doomed To Lose

By TOM REEDY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(P)—Universal military training was saved from a vote—and likely defeat—in the house military affairs committee today by the noon bell.

After a plea for the bill by Secretary of War Patterson, who said that 250,000 Americans may die in one day if war comes again, an opposing bloc led by Rep. Short (R-Mo.) tried to force a vote on the measure.

The committee session broke up in a row after Short was overruled on his demand for a roll call on his motion to defer action until next year or until after the senate has acted. Backers of the bill blocked the roll call by contending the committee was not legally in session since it was after noon and the house itself was convening.

Because of absences of committee members, opponents of the legislation apparently had a majority at the time.

"You can say this bill is dead," Short told reporters after the vote was blocked. He said he would strive every day the hearings on it continue to force a vote on deferring action.

Secretary Patterson led off testimony on the bill, patterned after President Truman's recommendations that young men 18 to 20 years of age serve a year to build up a giant reserve of trained forces in the event of an emergency.

Horror Pictured
He said he wasn't trying to be "melodramatic" in picturing the horrors of future war. The men who led America to triumph in this war are in "unanimous agreement," Patterson said, that the next one will bring on this set of problems:

The U. S. will be the first target. The attack may come with lightning speed with weapons from far off launching sites.

Without an immediate counter-offensive, this country's very ability to survive may be challenged. Time in the new atomic age will be the most important factor.

Said Patterson:
"In the war just ended a quarter million American fighting men gave their lives on foreign battlefields. If war comes again more than that number of men, women and children may be wiped out in a single day in their own homes."

No great supply of atom bombs will serve the purpose, he stressed. The existence of such a bomb, in fact, "enormously increases" the need for trained citizen-soldiers "capable of swift mobilization in the event of an atomic or airborne attack."

Without a trained force spread throughout the country to handle the disaster of such a lightning attack, the secretary told the committee, the nation might be swept by defeatism "after the first enemy blow."

Patterson estimated that 700,000 young men would be trained annually as citizen soldiers, each receiving $30 a month pay but without obligation to serve in combat. That sort of induction still would be left to Selective Service and then only by act of congress.

"Universal training," he said, "places the burden of national defense where it belongs—equally upon all young men regardless of class or station."

Resigns As Post Commander

J. K. Kidd, Jr., tendered his resignation as post commander of Pettis County Post 342, American Legion, at a meeting of the post held Thursday night at the armory.

Kidd explained that he had accepted employment with the Veterans' Administration and it is against the regulations to hold office in any veterans' organization.

A special meeting was called for next Thursday night at 8 o'clock for the election of a new post commander. A nominating committee will report at the opening of the session.

Post 342 will participate in Armistice Day ceremonies Sunday at the court house.

Crowds Fired Into At Palace

Furious Riot At Bucharest By Communists And Mihai Supporters

By FRANK O'BRIEN

BUCHAREST, Romania, Nov. 8.—(P)—Romanian troops fired machine guns point-blank into crowds at the royal palace today until a Russian general intervened, silenced their fire, and halted a furious riot between Communists and supporters of King Mihai.

I saw at least six persons fall when the troops machine-gunned a crowd at one entrance to the royal square. First estimates said at least five persons were killed and nearly 100 wounded.

Soviet General Susaikov, head of the Allied control commission in Bucharest, ordered the Romanian troops to cease firing, thus breaking up the bloodiest part of a six-hour riot between Communists and demonstrators holding a forbidden celebration of the king's birthday.

Lines of armed troops tonight guarded the royal square, scene of the riots, but demonstrators still marched on the outskirts of the square shouting "long live the king" and down with terror!—the same fight-provoking slogans they hurled at the Communists during the day's street brawling.

Riots "Blind For Plot"
(The Groza government in a broadcasted communique tonight charged the riots were "a blind for a revolutionary plot directed against the government" by Julius Maniu, Peasant party leader, and George Bratianu, Liberal party leader, BBC said.)

(The broadcast, recorded by NBC, charged the Peasant and Liberal parties "have during recent weeks prepared acts of disorder and mobilized well-known Fascist and reactionary elements, under cover of monarchist demonstrations.")

(It quoted the Romanian minister of the interior as saying he had decided "to take the most severe and urgent measures to preserve order.")

Guns Bark For Hours
For hours guns barked, fists flew, and several trucks were overturned in the milling riot which started when Communists charged the crowds celebrating Mihai's 24th birthday anniversary.

The demonstration had been banned by the Soviet-supported government of Premier Petru Groza, long at odds with the young monarch.

Fifteen truckloads of Communists, waving clenched fists and shouting "long live the Groza government," roared into the square and tried to disperse the crowd of between 40,000 and 50,000 Mihai supporters.

Fist fights started at 9:45 a. m. just after noon the first shots were fired from the direction of the ministry of the interior, which faces the royal square.

The Communists returned the fire, and the crowds scattered. Shooting continued sporadically until the troops fired with machine guns into the crowds at 3:50 p. m.

Russian troops in the city remained aloof, taking no part in the conflict.

(The dispatch did not say whether the first shot fired from the direction of the ministry of the interior came from the demonstrators or from troops trying to restore order.)

Want Curb Off Instalment Buying

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(P)—The Retail Credit Institute of America, representing more than 1,000 retail merchants in 44 states, asked President Truman today for an immediate end to existing curbs on instalment buying.

The private trade and research association said continuation of consumer credit regulations under the government's regulation would "monopolize consumer credit into the channels of big business and banking and destroy thousands of little merchants" in the nation.

States Stalin Was Forbidden To Appear

PARIS, Nov. 8.—(P)—The newspaper Liberation Soir published today a dispatch from the agency D'Edition de Presse, a small news agency, under a Moscow dateline which said that Generalissimo Stalin was taken seriously ill Nov. 4 and was forbidden by doctors to appear this week at Moscow celebrations of the Red revolution. Arab Mobs Kill Thirty Jews

By FRED KRIEG

CAIRO, Nov. 8.—(P)—Arab mobs charging into the Jewish quarter of Zanzur west of Tripoli killed 30 Jews, including children, in a new outburst of rioting in Tripolitania which has slain more than 100 Jews, the British said tonight. The mobs fired a synagogue and houses and looted homes at Zanzur in "a particularly brutal attack" Tuesday, a communique said.

Troops opened fire several times to quell the riots which spilled over into the provinces after starting in Tripoli, the bulletin added. The British announced yesterday that 74 Jews and one Arab had been killed and 185 Jews injured in the Italian Mediterranean colony since Sunday night.

War Dads Plan For Campaign

Reports Given At Meeting Held On Thursday Night

The Pettis County Chapter of the American War Dads held its regular meeting at the Maccabee Hall, Thursday night, with the president, H. E. Lindstrom, presiding. Plans for a membership campaign were made.

Reports were given by E. W. Schultz and Mr. Lindstrom of the Third Annual Convention of the American War Dads held in St. Louis last week, to which they had gone as delegates. The outstanding work of the organization at the present time, they reported, is the securing of improved hospitalization of the disabled veterans.

In behalf of this work, General Omar Bradley sent Major General Hawley, recently in charge of the army hospitals in the European area and now on the staff of the Veterans Administration, to explain the new set-up that is being worked out for the hospitals of this country.

The delegates expressed themselves as pleased with the attention that was accorded Missouri at the meeting in the largest city of the state. It was pointed out that the idea of the War Dads was the product of Nat Milgram, of Kansas City, and that the organization started there. When Harry Truman was Senator from Missouri, he became one of the first hundred War Dads.

Missouri's first president of the nation telegraphed his greetings to the convention. The largest chapter of War Dads was credited to Springfield, Mo., where members have done splendid work among the veterans at O'Reilly hospital. Missouri's governor, Phil M. Donnelly, and the mayor of St. Louis, A. P. Kaufmann, were among the many men of high rank to address the group.

The convention was a serious effort to help the chapters of the nation, Mexico and the Hawaiian Islands to so direct their efforts as to help the returning service man or woman meet the problems of re-entering civilian life, and of making his or her best contribution to that life. Many of the courses of action suggested will be put into effect by the local chapter during the coming year.

Mr. Lindstrom said, the membership drive being the first of them, and will be continued at an adjourned meeting to be held in the Pettis County Court House at 7:30 p. m. Monday, November 12.

Dr. Gingrich In Lecture Visions Power Of Destruction

Dr. Newell Gingrich, professor of physics at the University of Missouri, professed a belief that "we have a real basis for fear" from the destructive application of atomic energy in an interview preceding his lecture. Thursday night on "Atomic Power and Its Effect on Our Future Lives," at the Smith-Cotton high school auditorium.

Answering the question "Will danger from atomic warfare cause our government to decentralize all major industries," Dr. Gingrich asserted that at present this is the only sure counter-measure against the use of the bomb.

"If we do not have an effective world organization to control the bomb, there is a strong likelihood that one nation will partially destroy another or that both would destroy themselves," he predicted.

An atomic bomb could be released without the country attacked knowing who was to blame. "We are now beyond the state of blitzkrieg—it is superblitzkrieg," Dr. Gingrich exclaimed.

Dr. Gingrich said that German scientists did know of the atomic fission, but probably were not within six months or more of perfecting an atomic bomb.

Bayoneted Woman And Her Children

Atrocities On By Japanese Were Diabolical

By DEAN SCHEDLER

MANILA, Friday, Nov. 9.—(P)—A Filipino woman cuddling a 3-months old baby testified at Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's war crimes trial today that the Japanese took her son, 10, and her daughter, 6, from her and bayoneted them to death.

Although she told the Japanese troops she was pregnant and pleaded with them, they killed her children and bayoneted her five times, the witness said. She described atrocities in and around Lipa municipality, Batangas province, early this year.

The acting mayor of Lipa testified "the Japanese had deliberately planned for the destruction of Lipa by leaving drums of gasoline in large houses and buildings and bottles in small houses."

He said the Japanese burned and blasted utilities and took quantities of civilian cars, clothing and food before evacuating to the hills.

Miraculous Escape
Another witness in the Yamashita war crimes trial told yesterday of his miraculous escape from a well into which 300 Filipinos were hurled when Japanese troops rampaged south of Manila early this year, killing and raping.

The testimony of Pampilo Umali came as the prosecution of Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita began presenting evidence that the Japanese mistreated or slew 25,000 men, women and children in seven months in the southern province of Batangas.

Umali said he was among 700 men "and I don't know how many women" who were rounded up Feb. 15.

"We were led off to a well about three feet wide and 60 feet deep," Umali testified. "When my time came about 200 already had jumped and after I jumped at least another hundred followed me."

Umali lay all day and part of the night in this well of living and dying while the Japanese fired into the bodies, pushed in rocks, a sewing machine, and bamboo shoots.

About midnight, he said, some Filipino women came. They dropped ropes and somehow he and five others managed to disentangle themselves from the weight of bodies and debris and climb to safety.

War crimes investigator, Lt. James P. Healy Jr., of San Francisco, said that the Japanese on the pretense of hunting down guerrillas set whole villages afire and forced the villagers at gunpoint to perish in the flames.

The military commission trying Yamashita for his life agreed to hear some testimony about guerrilla activity but emphasized that it could not be used to excuse the cruelties of Japanese soldiers.

U. S. Forces In China Minor Skirmishes

Wedemeyer In A Denial They Had Provoked Trouble

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, Nov. 8.—(P)—Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer said today his American forces in China have been involved in minor skirmishes and that his troops definitely were not provoking trouble.

(This was the first official indication from an American source that U. S. troops had been drawn, in any degree, into fighting in north China.)

Chinese Communists, now engaged at a number of points in clashes with central government troops, have charged that Wedemeyer's men were assisting the government. The Reds demanded that Wedemeyer apologize for "intervention."

In an interview today at Shanghai with Associated Press Correspondent Richard Cushing, the general said Communist army representatives had warned him not to try to land troops at Weigaiwei port, near Tsingtao. They also had protested that Americans had raided the Communists' office in Tientsin. Wedemeyer said he had referred the latter matter to Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey, commander of the Third Marine Amphibious Corps.

Wedemeyer reiterated that his mission is solely to help the central government repatriate Japanese troops. He pointed out there are 1,800,000 Japanese in China and that 40 per cent still carry arms. Because of a shipping shortage, he looks for repatriation to require several months.

To Confer With Chiang
He arrived in China Tuesday flew to Shanghai from Peiping today and will leave tomorrow for Chungking to confer with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

Wedemeyer emphasized that the United States recognizes and will continue to support the central government but that Americans "will not become involved in fratricidal warfare in the process."

"We are not supposed to take aggressive action against any Chinese except to protect American lives and property," he said. He said that only 6,300 U. S. army personnel will be left in the China theater by the first of next year. These are aside from 53,000 marines in north China.

Gen. Chou En-Lai, No. 2 Communist leader who is in Chungking conferring, said today the Communists had presented a counter demand in reply to government proposals for ending the civil strife. The Reds asked that the national military council issue a cease-fire order along with withdrawal of all government troops from "liberated areas" to points they occupied before the fighting began.

Be Rise In Prices For New Cars
DETROIT, Nov. 8.—(P)—The Detroit News said today that, under the OPA pricing formula, prices of new Ford cars will rise six per cent, plus $30 allowance for "improvements," and Studebaker prices will go up 12 per cent.

By improvements, it explained, is meant a higher horsepower motor.

The News said its information came from an OPA source.

Communists In Demand That Troops Withdraw

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, Nov. 8.—(P)—Chinese Communists who today bluntly demanded that government troops withdraw from Red-dominated areas of north China, have captured the Shansi-province railroad town of Chaocheng and begun "the massacre" of its civil servants and Kuomintang (Nationalist) party members, a Chinese dispatch reported.

Government defenders of the town, south of Taiyuan, the Shansi capital, withdrew last Saturday night after their ammunition was exhausted, the belated dispatch said. In other parts of Shansi, the fighting continued with four towns under direct Red assault, the dispatch added. It said the Reds had been driven from two of the towns.

Military Leaders Meet
The Chinese government meanwhile gathered its military leaders today for an unheralded "bandit suppression" conference in Chungking. And Communists termed the phrase just another name for an all-out drive to liquidate all Communists.

Defiant Communists nevertheless took this action:

1. Countered a government "stay put, stop firing" peace plan with demands that all government forces withdraw completely from Red-dominated areas of the north.

2. Demanded that Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, U. S. commander in China, apologize for American "intervention" against the Reds, and reserved the right to demand compensation — its amount as yet unspecified.

3. Forecast a huge government offensive for which, Red spokesmen at Yenan said, 90 divisions already have been massed in the north.

Increasing the tension were reports from Manchuria that no Chinese government troops have been landed at any Manchurian ports. Russians withdrew suddenly from the southern Manchuria port of Yulatao and Yingkow, it was reported here today, leaving Chinese Reds in control—and leaving Chinese government troops still aboard their U. S. transports which would not attempt landings against certain Red opposition.

The central government acknowledged battlefield reverses in the fight for the Peiping-Hankow railroad, in which the Communists captured two Nationalist army commanders and forced a withdrawal of at least 15 miles in the area south of Tzhsien in southern Hopeh province.

Deal With Suppression

A steady but unannounced procession of arriving top-ranking Chinese government generals today testified to the importance of Saturday's meeting. Chungking sources insisted that it will deal with "bandit suppression," and Chou En-Lai said that obviously it will deal with "the military situation."

The Reds, he said, had incontrovertible proof that Generalissimo Chiang was ordering wholesale liquidation of Chinese Communists in northern provinces, even during peace parleys last month. Chou's "proof" consisted of purported orders to Chiang's generals to begin "full-fledged liquidation of bandits."

Call For Apologies

Communist demands for apologies and compensation for American "interference" in China's internal affairs were contained in letters of protest sent at intervals from Oct. 6 to Nov. 4 to American military leaders from the Red's Yenan headquarters. They were signed by Gen. Yeh Chung-Yin, commander of the Communist 18th group army, or Gen. Chu Teh, Communist commander-in-chief.

Predict Subsidies On Beef Be Dropped

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(P)—Rep. Johnson (D-Okla.) predicted today that the agriculture department will announce tomorrow that it will eliminate subsidies on beef by June 30.

Congressmen who are familiar with subsidy laws said the removal of a subsidy would require six months' notice.

He also forecast that the agriculture department soon will announce a support price of 90 per cent of parity on peanuts for the coming year.

Dr. Gingrich In Lecture Visions Power Of Destruction

ments is "one of the most startling discoveries in centuries," Dr. Gingrich said. "Sparks" evolved have a chain reaction, he continued, causing further energetic radiation.
Cosmic radiation, over which there is no control, is the only other power more energetic than the atomic fission, the speaker revealed.
Dr. Gingrich, who appeared here under the auspices of the Pettis County Historical Society, was introduced by I. H. Reed, president of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, who pointed out in his initial remarks that "Since that most eventful day, August 6, 1945, when the first atomic bomb was dropped on Hiroshima, Japan, by the U. S. Army Air Forces, I believe that all of us have had and still have a large question mark in our minds as to the future outcome and developments of such a scientific discovery."

High Technical Skills
Most of the fundamental processes of this scientific extraction were known before the war, Dr. Gingrich related, but it was during the war that such technical skills called for in creating the atomic bomb were fused.

The expenditure of two billion dollars for the atom bomb project began a new field for engineers, he said, reiterating that the physical processes were known, but nuclear engineering was the next step, and there was a great jump from the laboratories of physicists to the ultimate results.

An open forum was held after the lecture with members of the audience asking questions which were clearly answered by the speaker, J. L. Curry, president of the historical society, opened the meeting.

Congress May Hear Attlee

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Prime Minister Clement Attlee of Great Britain will be invited to address a joint session of congress next week, house speaker Rayburn said today.

Rayburn told reporters of the invitation as he left a White House conference with President Truman and other congressional leaders.

Attlee is coming here Saturday for discussions of atomic energy with President Truman and Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada.

Rayburn did not give a specific date for Attlee's address but asserted it would not be Monday. The speech will be broadcast, Rayburn said, adding that he knew of no plans for a similar address by the Canadian prime minister.

Earlier, Eben Ayers, assistant White House press secretary, told reporters he did not know the exact time of Attlee's arrival on Saturday.

The speaker also explained the types and uses of various field and gun equipment in the various operations and the development of the technique of over all coordinations and cooperation of all fighting departments in winning objectives strongly held.

Prosecuting Attorney Job Harneid presided as program chairman. President Clyde Heynen announced there would be a meeting of the board of directors at Allgair's restaurant Friday noon.

Luster Resigns At Oklahoma U.

NORMAN, Okla., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Dewey (Snorter) Luster, since 1941 coach of the University of Oklahoma football team, tonight announced his resignation.

The announcement was made first by President George L. Cross after Luster made the announcement to his players during today's practice.

He gave ill health as the reason for his resignation.

President Cross said Luster's decision to retire was very sudden. "I am reluctant to accept it," he said, "and I am not certain our board of regents will accept it. Snorter has done a fine job. If his resignation is accepted we will take plenty of time before attempting to engage a new coach." "This is not the first time Luster has tried to resign. After the 1943 season, when Oklahoma won the Big Six championship with an all-victorious Conference record, he wanted to retire because of ill health.

"Last year he again made the effort. Both times he was dissuaded."

Pearl Harbor Information Must be Given

Truman Sends Out Message To That Effect

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The White House said today that President Truman has ordered that the joint congressional committee investigating Pearl Harbor must be supplied with any information it desires.

His memorandum, to federal department and agency heads, as well as to the joint chiefs of staff, authorizes all employees under them to give the committee "any information of which they may have knowledge."

The White House said the president sent out the memorandum last night.

In it he also requested the department heads to authorize employees, even if they aren't questioned by the committee, to "come forward voluntarily" and report any information which they may believe has not been disclosed to the congressional investigators.

Applicable To All

"This directive," the president said, "is applicable to all persons in your departments or agencies whether they are in the armed services or not and whether or not they are called to testify before the joint committee."

The president's action came at a time when Republicans and Democrats on the investigating committee were contending that political considerations are imperiling the value of the whole inquiry.

A deferred meeting between government conciliators and the striking UAW-CIO union will be re-scheduled, according to Humphrey Mitchell, Dominion labor minister, only when definite proposals may be offered the union.

No statement was forthcoming on today's meeting. Young Ford said only that he "did not think any comment would help the situation at this time."

Inspectors said several discrepancies have been found in the account of the incident given by Mrs. Mildred Beer of Park Merced. She is the wife of a navy commander serving with a destroyer in the Pacific.

MacArthur Cabinet Suggestion

Believes Military Leaders Should be Ex-officio Members President's Cabinet

By EDWIN B. HAAS
WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur has expressed his belief that "the professional heads" of the armed services should sit in as ex-officio members of the president's cabinet.

The general's suggestion is included in a transcript taken by the joint chiefs of staff special committee. This group interviewed top army and navy leaders on a proposal to set up a single department of national defense.

The transcript, made public by the senate military committee which is considering army-navy merger plans quoted MacArthur as saying at Leyte in the Philippines Dec. 3, 1944:

"I believe that the professional heads of the services should be ex-officio members of the cabinet. They should be present at all cabinet meetings without power of voting, but permitted to express their opinion and above all else, to hear the cabinet as they discuss not only external affairs of the United States but internal problems."

Suggestion Not Possible

Brig. Gen. F. Trubee Davison, member of the army-navy staff committee, was quoted as telling MacArthur his suggestion was not possible "in the cabinet today the way the government is set up."

MacArthur added: "It was our forefathers who wrote the constitution looking at Europe, fearful of military dictation and military influence, and they made the great mistake of trying to keep the military isolated."

Discussing MacArthur's suggestion with a reporter today, Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) acting chairman of the military committee said "I disagree heartily with that plan. I think our forefathers were pretty wise. We have got to continue civilian control of the military agencies."

MacArthur noted that although the president is commander-in-chief his decisions are "nonprofessional" and "influenced to some extent by the political outlook of the United States because the president of the United States, whoever he may be, has been and always will be by our system of government, a servant of politics."

"There have hardly been two (presidents) who have the same concept as to what their duties are."

The general said military department leaders "have suffered frightfully in the past" because they did not know what went on in the cabinet sessions.

"It is no answer to say the secretary of war and the secretary of the navy are present," MacArthur continued. However they may want to protect professional interests, they haven't the professional knowledge to do so, and they are not able to come back and tell the services what went on."

The general said he saw no "danger" in his suggestion because "no man can be a conspirator against the government of the United States in any way, shape or form if he sat in at cabinet meetings with him having responsibility for the military forces."

Youth Critically Injured in Wreck

CARTHAGE, Mo., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Bobby Jean Brown, 16, of Carthage, was in critical condition at a hospital following an auto accident today five miles west of here on Highway 66.

No other car was involved in the accident.

Action Soon On 'Must' Bill

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Speaker Rayburn predicted today the house will "get somewhere pretty soon" on the so-called full employment bill—a "must" on President Truman's legislative program.

The Texas Democrat made the forecast to newsmen at the White House following a conference with President Truman and other congressional leaders.

He did not go into details but expressed belief the legislation would be reported by the house expenditures committee this week or early next week.

Committee work on the full employment measure is part of a two-way approach by the house to the problem of easing labor unrest.

Sugar Ration Up To 1947

Meat Possibly Be Off The List In Early 1946

By OVID A. MARTIN
WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—there's little hope now that sugar rationing will end before 1947, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson said today.

Rationing of butter, margarine, lard and shortening may have to continue into the spring, and possibly summer, of 1946, he added, but meat may go off the ration list early in 1946.

Anderson gave this picture at a news conference at which he announced the United States has allocated liberated areas of Europe and French North Africa 50 percent more food for the October-December quarter than in the previous quarter.

The allocation totaled nearly 4,000,000 tons from a fourth quarter supply of 37,000,000 tons.

More than 75 percent of the food assigned to the liberated areas and North Africa is wheat and flour. In the case of meats, these foreign areas will get 347,000 tons compared with 2,473,000 tons for American civilians.

Food For Europe

Anderson said the quantities of food being made available to Europe will "substantially meet stated requests, except for sugar, fats and oils, canned fish and rice."

The secretary was less optimistic with regard to domestic supplies of sugar and fats and oils than he was several weeks ago when he discussed them at news conferences. At that time, he expressed the hope that fats and oils could be taken off the ration list by the first of the year and that the sugar situation would be eased considerably by next spring.

His optimism on sugar was based largely upon the reported discovery of 1,600,000 tons of sugar on Java after its conquest from the Japanese and upon expectations that the Philippines would soon be able to resume exports.

But civil strife in Java and other Netherlands East Indies islands has prevented, he said today, the movement of sugar from that area.

Moreover, latest reports indicate, he said, that the Philippines may not be able to export sugar for another 18 months.

Kinney Loses On School Tax

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Private schools and religious institutions failed yesterday to win a blanket tax exemption from the Missouri senate.

By a one-vote margin, 13-14, it rejected the plea of veteran Sen. Michael Kinney (D) of St. Louis to give private schools freedom from taxation on all property actually used in education.

Instead of the blanket exemption, the senate turned to consideration of various plans to extend the present tax exemption, which allows such schools to have one acre within a mile of a city and five acres beyond that area tax free.

A proposal by Sen. Jasper Smith (R) of Greene county to increase the exemption to three acres was pending when the senate deferred action on the bill, a tax classification measure already passed by the house.

Attempt to Kill Minister

TOKYO, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Two vagrant former Kamikaze pilots who waited with drawn knives in the darkened halls of the home ministry attempted vainly last night to assassinate home minister Kenjiro Horikiri.

The 61-year-old minister, attacked as he returned from addressing a meeting of police chiefs on the increase of crime and "chaotic" conditions in Japan, was not injured. The assailants were taken in custody.

At his desk as usual today, Horikiri dismissed the attempt against his life as "unimportant" except as it emphasized the increased "restlessness" among the people.

"The social situation, as you know, is deteriorating," he told the Associated Press in a telephone interview. The attack, he added, increased his personal intention to "work harder for the maintenance of public order."

Cotton Crop For Year Smallest Since 1921

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—A 1945 cotton crop of 9,368,000 bales—the smallest since 1921 and the second smallest since 1889—was forecast by the agriculture department today.

Cotton prospects declined 411,000 bales during October due to unfavorable weather conditions in a large part of the western cotton belt.

Production last year totaled 12,230 bales while the crop averaged 12,293,000 bales for the 10-year period of 1943-43.

This year's small crop eliminates the possibility of a return to government crop production and marketing quotas on cotton next year.

Says Wagner Act Violated

UAW-CIO Files It Against The General Motors

DETROIT, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The CIO's United Auto Workers Union accused General Motors Corp. of unfair labor practices under the Wagner act today and at the same time asked government intervention in its wage dispute with the corporation.

The charge against General Motors was filed with Frank H. Bowen of the National Labor Relations Board.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW-CIO vice president who filed the charge, stated the union was willing to continue negotiations. He added he hoped "the attitude of the corporation" would change and that "they will begin to bargain in good faith."

Reuther said the union's charge against General Motors was based on the fact that the corporation, while "pleading inability to pay a wage increase," at the same time refuses to discuss "its ability to pay" with the union.

The corporation, Reuther said, also refuses to discuss with the union "its profits and its price position."

"This constitutes a violation of the act under section H (5), which declares it to be an unfair labor practice for an employer 'to refuse to bargain collectively with the representative of his employees,'" Reuther said in a formal statement.

Corporation To Answer

The corporation indicated it would prepare an answer to Reuther.

"The doctrine is well established," Reuther said, "that when an employer advances the affirmative defense of inability to pay, the burden of proof is on such employer to establish his inability to pay by producing the cost data on which his plea is based."

"The union," he added, "also is charging that since Aug. 18, 1945, the corporation has continually and repeatedly demonstrated bad faith in that it has refused to consider the union's demands."

Services of U. S. Conciliators were asked by the UAW-CIO in a plea to Washington today which set forth that the negotiations with General Motors were "deadlocked."

Opposes Merger By Army-Navy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Opposing any "forced marriage" of the army and navy, Vice Admiral Charles M. Cooke, Jr., testified today that this country might have lost the recent war under such a consolidation.

Looking ahead, he said future peace for the United States will rest upon a navy so powerful it can win any combination of sea and naval air power.

The deputy chief of naval operations appeared before the senate military committee to round out the navy's arguments against proposals for a single armed forces department with land, sea and air branches. Admiral Cooke devoted most of a 20-page prepared argument to attacking a merger plan offered by the army.

Children Like Sweets In Lunch

Every child likes something sweet in his school lunch, but it is a problem for the mother with her limited sugar supply.

Some desserts take only a little or no sugar. Among these are custards which may be made with sirup or honey; cookies made with honey, molasses or sirup; dried fruit; bread pudding; gingerbread; sweet sandwiches made with ground fruit and nuts, jelly, jam, preserves, or fruit butter; canned fruit; jello; fresh fruit; apple-raisin roll; and dried fruit confection.

Cup cakes, especially if baked in paper cups, will remain fresher longer and be easier to eat than other cake.

Dried fruit confection may be made by grinding 1 lb. dried fruit and 1 cup nuts, and mixing with 1/4 cup is used with sweet fruit such as dates and raisins and 1/2 cup is used with the more tart fruits such as apricots. Make into a roll. Chill and slice. It may be made into balls.

Apple-raisin roll is simple to make. Put 2 unpeeled, washed, cored apples and one cup raisins through a food chopper, drain and add 1/2 cup honey. Spread over buttered biscuit dough or yeast dough. Roll as a jelly roll and slice. Place on a cookie sheet. Bake biscuit dough type at once in a moderately hot oven—375 degrees F. for 10-15 minutes. Let the yeast dough type rise until double in size. Bake in a moderate oven over 350 degrees F. for about 15 minutes.

Recipes for desserts using honey, sorghum, and other sirups may be found in Missouri Extension Circular 467, "Using Sugar, Honey, sorghum and other sirups." This circular may be obtained by request from the extension office, 410 1/2 S. O. O., Sedalia.

Good Sanitation Pays On Farm

A good sanitation program on the farm more than pays for the extra amount of labor involved. The value of such a program has been shown clearly with swine but sanitation also is very important with other kinds of livestock, points out Cecil Elder of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture.

The trend in modern veterinary medicine is toward disease prevention and certainly farm sanitation does play an important part in disease prevention. The expense involved may not be great, but a good program does require a considerable amount of work.

Attention should be given to the construction of barns and pens, being sure that they are so built as to make them easy to keep sanitary. Sometimes some rearranging or remodeling may be necessary, but in the long-run this usually turns out to be a labor saving move.

The fundamental principle of a good sanitation program is cleanliness, so it is imperative that barns and pens be kept clean and that adequate equipment be available for this purpose. When there are outbreaks of infectious or contagious diseases, it may be advisable to disinfect the barns and quarters. Great care should be taken in choosing the proper disinfecting agent.

Even though there has been no outbreak of disease on a farm, it is always advisable to have maternity stalls or quarters set apart for use at the time animals freshen, farrow, or have lambs. These quarters need to be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected in ample time to have them dry and ready for occupancy before the actual hour that they are needed.

Lye in both hot and cold solutions has been found to be a satisfactory cleaning and disinfecting agent for farm buildings when used in the strength of one 13-ounce can of lye to 12 gallons of water. Pens that have not been thoroughly cleaned cannot be properly disinfected.

The house can be built for $1,800 to $2,500, says J. C. Woolley, head of the agricultural engineering department at the College of Agriculture. Even lower cost is possible if local cobblestone and gravel are used and the farmer furnishes much of the labor.

This is one of the plans approved for use in the statewide campaign for home and farmstead improvement sponsored by the Agricultural Extension Service and the state advisory committee of farm leaders.

Sedalia in Unusual Club For Aviators

TRENTON, N. J.—The members of the famed Caterpillar Club are now voting by mail on the question of having local posts or chapters.

Sedalia members are: Flight Officer F. B. First, 216 East Broadway, and Staff Sergeant R. P. McPherson, 501 North Prospect avenue.

Founded in 1922, the club was a mythical organization until 1943. At that time, some oldtime Caterpillar members met and elected the following officers: President, Harold Foster; Vice President, Marvin D. McDaniel, and Treasurer, Verne Treat. The members asked Stanley Switlik, head of the Switlik Parachute Company to furnish office space and defray office and clerical help expense until the club could organize on a local basis. Four other parachute manufacturers contributed to a fund for awarding credential and advertising expense.

Time For Decision

The time has now arrived for the members to decide on a club supported by local units. Besides the formation of local posts of chapters, the plan calls for the promotion of safety in aviation, the issuance of a club publication and the eventual publication of a Log Book containing the emergency jump story, or stories, of each member. Since there are now over 10,000 members and will be around 40,000 when all returns are in, the log book will run into several volumes of high endeavor.

Four Lieutenant Generals, Doolittle, Breerton, Eaker and Hunter are members. Several Major and Brigadier Generals and high ranking Naval Officers are on the list.

How To Improve Grass Pasture

Here's a way to improve your bluegrass pasture. Lespedeza or sweet clover in bluegrass sod not only increases its productivity, but also improves the stand of the bluegrass. These are some of the results obtained at the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station fields at Lathrop in northwestern Missouri during recent years.

The best method tried consisted of seeding both lespedeza and sweet clover in the bluegrass with the soil being limed and phosphated. The gains by beef cattle on such grazing averaged 185 pounds per acre annually.

The tests showed that diking the dense bluegrass sod increased the stands of both lespedeza and sweet clover sowed.

Life Term Is Upheld On Holland

Opinion Of The Supreme Court Is Written By H. J. Westhues

The Missouri supreme court at Jefferson City affirmed Monday the first degree murder conviction of Edgar V. Holland, thus climaxing a case which horrified the Lake of the Ozarks resort region when the headless, mutilated bodies of two women were discovered on a lake shore in April 1944.

More than a month after the cold, rainy Sunday when the first body was found, the two decapitated torsos were identified as those of Mrs. Mollie Mattie Holland, 36, Holland's wife, and her mother, Mrs. Pearl Fairfax, 59.

Holland was convicted by a Pettis county circuit court jury last January of slaying his wife and was sentenced to life imprisonment. Charges involving his mother-in-law are still pending.

The 44-year-old ex-convict took his appeal to the high court last September and today's opinion, written by Commissioner Henry J. Westhues, apparently closed the door to his fight for freedom. The entire court concurred with Westhues' finding that Holland had failed on all counts of his appeal petition.

Formed "Tight Web"

"Many of the facts proven are meager in themselves," Westhues wrote of the testimony before the court, "but taken together they form a web so tight about the accused that there is no reasonable theory of escape."

The first body found was that of Mrs. Holland. Torn by two shotgun blasts fired at short range, with its head hacked away and the right leg gone, the torso had washed up on the muddy shore and was discovered among driftwood April 16, 1944.

The following day the body of the older woman was found just below that spot.

It also was decapitated. Examination showed it too had been shot at least twice. Neither of the heads nor the leg of the younger woman has ever been recovered.

A month later a relative identified the bodies and several days after that Holland told officers the bodies might be those of his wife and mother-in-law. He did not report the women's absence from their Pettis county farm, he told officers, because they frequently made long trips without telling him where they were going or when they would return.

Holland's appeal protested that the lower court had not shown he had a motive for killing the women, that "the evidence was insufficient to sustain a conviction" and that no evidence had been offered to show the Pettis county court had jurisdiction in the case.

Find Evidence Sufficient

One after another, the supreme court overruled those pleas, citing testimony which the opinion declared was sufficient in all particulars.

Testimony of several witnesses, the supreme court said, furnished substantial evidence that Holland and his wife had domestic troubles, that Holland resented his mother-in-law's presence in the home and that he would receive their jointly-held property on his wife's death.

One witness, J. R. Shane, testified at the trial last January that Holland complained because the women left him alone to "batch" so much of the time.

Shane quoted Holland as telling him "he had just as well be batching because they were gone so much of the time and left him and it made him so damned mad, he had a notion to take his gun and blow their damned heads off and throw them in the river."

The supreme court, noting from the evidence presented that the women were lightly clad at the time they were killed, that the weather was raw and rainy and that traces of human blood were found in the Holland kitchen, declared it substantially proven the women met death at the Holland home in Pettis county, giving the lower court proper jurisdiction.

"The high court said the evidence was circumstantial and if taken alone, 'insufficient.' But taken as a whole, the court said, the evidence proved Holland's guilt.

Argument on the appeal was made early in September by Holland's attorney, Fred F. Wesner.

Capt. John E. Lamy Hopes for Strong Defense

"America is the greatest country the world has ever known," commented Capt. John E. Lamy, of Sedalia, recently returned home after a long and bitter taste of life in Japanese prison camps in the Philippines and Japan, as he expressed the hope that we always shall maintain a strong and ready defense against such grasping and jealous nations as Japan.

A medical officer, Capt. Lamy, son of Mrs. J. A. Lamy, of 500 South Grand avenue, and the late Mr. Lamy, and husband of the former Miss Mary Alice Messerly of Sedalia, was evacuated by American forces from a camp in northern Honshu, main Japanese island, the middle of September. He arrived in Sedalia October 15.

Capt. Lamy was on the last prison ship that made the voyage from Manila to Japan without being attacked by bombers or submarines. That was in August of 1944. The ships carrying prisoners were not marked in any way to distinguish them from any other enemy craft, thus American planes and ships had no possible way of knowing that prisoners were aboard, the captain explained.

In Mountainous Area

The last camp in which he was incarcerated was in a mountainous area of Japan. The transition from the tropics to the rigorous winter and deep snow of this region was a great hardship to the 500 men of his group, especially since the food, clothing and housing were terribly inadequate. Sick, underfed and poorly clothed, most of these men were forced to work in the wet, dangerous hole of a copper mine from dawn until after dark. Cave-ins were an almost daily occurrence.

Capt. Lamy was one of two doctors at this camp. "With the scarcity of medicine and equipment, our chief job was to determine which of the sick men would be least harmed by going to work, and trying to keep the sickest in camp," he said.

A Japanese military doctor made frequent visits to the camp, Lamy continued, "but his only interest was in reducing the number of sick in camp, not by curing them, but simply by sending almost all men able to walk out to work."

Craved Food

During most of the period of imprisonment food was inadequate in quantity as well as quality. "Even now it is impossible to recall the persistent craving for something to eat," the captain declared. "Food was in our thoughts every minute—almost every conversation ended in a discussion of food."

Several successful escapes were made while he was imprisoned at Davao Penal colony in Mindanao. Of 19 men who made a break for freedom, only two were killed in their attempt to elude the Japanese. The prisoners remaining in camp were placed under heavy guard, rations radically reduced, and the close associates of the escaped men placed in solitary confinement and subjected to varying degrees of torture and mistreatment.

But in spite of this added punishment all rejoiced that a successful get-away had been accomplished.

Post Was Evacuated

Assigned to the medical staff of the station hospital at Fort Stotsenberg in Luzon, in October of 1941, Capt. Lamy, a graduate of the school of medicine at McGill University, Montreal, was there until December 24, 1941, when the post was evacuated as the invading Japanese approached. He was then transferred to the 57th Infantry, Philippine Scouts, and was attached to that organization when he was taken prisoner on Bataan April 8, 1942.

At the time of his capture he was in U. S. General Hospital No. 1 being treated for what he termed a minor wound, and was unable to contact his outfit.

The enemy kept him there, treating accumulated sick and wounded Americans and Filipinos until July 3. With the hospital unit he was moved to infamous Camp O'Donnell in Tarlac province where he helped care for Americans who were too ill to be moved to Camp Cabanatuan. During the early months following the capitulation to the Japanese, 28, 600 Filipinos and 1,800 Americans died in Camp O'Donnell, Lamy reported. Cause of the vast number of deaths was primarily starvation superimposed malaria, beri-beri, scurvy and other vitamin deficiencies.

Not Enough Medicine

The American doctors had some medicine to work with, but not enough. When Lamy arrived many internees were too far gone to be aided. Of approximately 100 Americans who were still left at Camp O'Donnell then, about 50 per cent survived, he said.

Three years ago last month Lamy was moved to Davao and for about three months conditions were pretty fair, he recalled. After that they became progressively worse in every way. He was there for 20 months.

In June, 1944, the Japs started a prisoner movement again, 30 miles north on the gulf of Davao to board ship for Manila. The trip to the port was made in trucks, 35 or 40 men packed in "like cattle or sheep."

"Several Americans had escaped and the Nips were taking no more chances," the Sedalian recounted, "so they took off our shoes, leashed us together, blindfolded us and put an armed guard on each truck. There was not a chance of our getting away."

Worked In Fields

From Manila the prisoners were taken to the camp at Cabanatuan and while there for two months, Capt. Lamy worked as a slave laborer in the fields. That was the only period, he said, when he was not allowed to serve as a doctor.

Late in the summer of 1944 he was placed aboard the ship headed for Japan. The sea journey took only 12 days. Other boats, however, were held up, and prisoners were stuffed in the holds for 60 to 90 days under conditions of horror.

At the camp in Honshu the main diet was rice three times a day, and soup made from boiling water flavored with the tops of sweet potatoes and other vegetables "we didn't even know the names of."

Held there for nearly a year as American troops were effecting the reconquest of the Philippines, and other Allied forces were advancing and pressing back the enemy to his home islands, Lamy and his fellow prisoners knew little of the progress of the war.

Japs Change Attitude

On last August 20 they were notified of Japan's surrender, and immediately after peace was announced "the Jap attitude underwent a remarkable change. They were suddenly concerned about our welfare and happiness."

With release imminent and the dream of going home becoming a reality, the men even then exercised restraint. Happy, yes, but good soldiers. The senior American officer over this group of army and navy men and marines (joined last May by 50 British prisoners), was Lieut. Col. James Walker, A. C., who asked the men, now under his unrestricted command, not to create any incidents. Military discipline was instituted immediately after the Japs turned the operation of the camp over to the men they long had bullied.

Leave Perplexed Enemy

These Americans — ingenious ever, for it was remarkable, Lamy said, how the men could fashion necessities from scraps—left the perplexed Japs on September 14. Japs who had observed bitterly, "If we'd leave these damn Americans alone for a month they'd build a railroad in the camp."

Moved by train, the band of prisoners joined American forces at the port of Shogama, near Sendai, and were processed at Yokohama, where they remained a few days while a typhoon passed.

Reaching Manila on September 26, Capt. Lamy repeated the ten-word message he was permitted to send from Yokohama to his family, the first direct word from him since the opening of the Pacific war.

Ten days later he started the last phase of his trip home, traveling by air in ATC C-54's, arriving in San Francisco October 9, after 40 hours flying time.

Following a leave Capt. Lamy, whose outward appearance belies deleterious experiences, will report at Hot Springs, Ark., to an army-navy rest hospital. He expects to be placed on inactive status, and from then on his immediate plans are uncertain.

By introducing airways beam signals, tiny course beacon lights—and perhaps even radar—they said an entirely new approach to such training could be achieved.

Sedalia May Have Regular TWA Service

Hearing on an Application at New Orleans Monday

Sedalia may soon have regular airline service if the civil aeronautics Board acts favorably on an application by Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., at a hearing November 5, at New Orleans.

The application is for permission to include Sedalia and Jefferson City as scheduled stops on the now-existing route between Kansas City and St. Louis. If approval is granted Sedalia will be linked with other cities on TWA's 7,700-mile domestic system.

The application to include service to Sedalia was made after an extensive study of traffic potentialities. This survey charted the growth of the city during the pre-war "normal" period and the airline believes Sedalia can support the proposed operations.

Much interesting information, some of it perhaps not widely known, has been compiled in exhibit form by TWA's route planners for presentation at the CAB hearing.

Hotel Information

New Hampshire was the only state not listed as a home address on the registry books of the city's hotels during the survey period. Exclusive of the Missourians who were hotel guests, a total of 4,328 visitors were listed during the 12-month period examined. Of this number nearly 1,600 of them resided in areas that are provided air service on already existing TWA routes. The annual hotel receipts for this pre-war period were $160,000.

Other figures tend to show that Sedalia deserves air service. Retail sales during the survey period were $7,804,000; postal receipts were $139,000; a total of 3,113 individual income tax returns were filed. All these figures have been compared in the exhibit with those of cities of approximate population and which now have air carrier service. The comparison puts Sedalia in a favorable light in the opinion of airline officials.

In its summary, TWA estimates that nine persons would be required to handle the operations and that approximately $8,950 would be spent to properly equip the airport and offices for service.

Sgt. Hugh Stevens Has His Discharge

Sgt. Hugh W. Stevens received his honorable discharge from the army air forces at Baer Field, Ft. Wayne, Ind., October 27 under the provisions of the army point system. Stevens was stationed at Baer Field, a First Troop Carrier Command base.

He is the husband of Evelene May Stevens, 1701 South Stewart avenue, and was employed at Miami, Fla., before entering service.

The sergeant served 26 months in the European theatre of operations as a mechanic.

Map Devised For Trainees In Night Flying Tried At SAAF

By Paul B. Mason

CINCINNATI, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The Army Air Force has taken old newspapers, some onion sacking, glue and a few tons of statuary plaster, hung an artificial moon over the result to produce a motor driven three-dimensional scale map which bids fair to revolutionize night flight-training for pilots.

The "low-level night pilotage trainer" was the brainchild of James E. Bellitt, Denver-born graduate of Iowa Wesleyan university, a Wright Field civilian project engineer. He conceived the idea during invasion maneuvers with the Troop Carrier Command at Vichy, Mo., last year.

Pilots were missing their approach to troop "drop zones," he said, because of their inability to identify terrain under moonlight or overcast conditions.

Developed and built in the Cincinnati plant of Burton-Rodgers, Inc., holders of numerous training-aids contracts with the AAF, the first completed trainer was crated and made ready for air shipment to the TCC base at Sedalia, Mo., after a demonstration for aviation authorities and newsmen.

47 Sections

Essentially, the device consists of 47 sections, each two feet wide and nine feet long, hinged side by side into one huge belt which moves on garage-door trackage, with the turns some 45 feet apart. The map is scaled six feet to the mile.

An airplane cockpit is set up at one end so that the map, "unrolling" beneath it, provides a faithful impression of country-side as it would appear to a pilot flying at 1,200 feet altitude and at ground speed of 140 to 180 miles an hour. Doll-size houses, trees, streams, dams, highways and railroads are represented—the trees by reindeer moss.

Simulation of night-flying conditions is enhanced by use of an adjustable low-power light-source—a miniature moon.

Bellitt credited Col. J. H. Lee of the TCC base at Stout Field, Indianapolis, S. Sgt. John W. Rippon of Toledo, and Raymond K. Stout, chief of the training equipment branch at Wright Field with "outstanding assistance" in developing the trainer. Rippon, he said, remained on the job two and a half months beyond his eligible date for discharge.

Ways To Improve
